

To Whom It May Concern,

It has come to my attention that Sinclair stations intend use public airwaves, free of charge, to broadcast a one-sided anti-John Kerry documentary called "Stolen Honor." This development serves to remind me of a widening credibility gap between the media and the public it addresses. In fairness, Sinclair might broadcast a pro-Kerry program like "Going Upriver" shortly after they air "Stolen Honor." Otherwise, one can only come to the conclusion that Sinclair's editorial proceedings deliberately manipulate public airwaves to promote the interest of one political party over another. Furthermore, such actions on the part of Sinclair show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. Thank you.
